My thoughts:

1. The panel member assessing the complaint must declare and sign a statutory declaration that they have no link or friendship with the complainant/defendant, whatsoever.
2. Panel members must each do their own research thoroughly and not rely on another panel member for their research, study and assessing the case.
3. Each panel member must have their own individual research and working papers on the case in front of them.
4. Currently, it seem that one panel member is doing the work and writing up the conclusion. The other two members just signed off in agreement. (Rubber Stamping).
5. The current system, actually allows mistake and miscarriage of justice.
6. The other members not putting in the fair effort required, also get paid. Maybe for very little or no work at all.
7. For fairness, panel members must come from a diverse cultural background.
8. Procedural fairness must be uphold at every turn.

Thank you.
