Defining the roles of council and administration: Guidance questions

- 7) How should a council's role be defined? What should the definition include?

a council role should be more like a servant to a local community, not a despotic body. Complete openness, including where the rate payers's money have spent. No more self indulgence, no more improvement of their own conditions. The practice when you come to the council and the only way to address your concern is to fill the form, not meeting real people, only late to receive "A letter of Acknowledge", nothing else - should be stopped immediately.
- 8) How should the role of the CEO and administration be defined?
- 9) What other comments would you like to make on the roles of council and administration?
- 10) Are there any areas where the separation of powers is particularly unclear?
Yes
- 11) How do you propose that these are improved?

Take 90% power from councils, and make rules and regulations more uniform across the state.

2. Training

Elected member competencies: Guidance questions

Just employ the right people with acquired qualifications in the first place. Why rate payers have to pay for training?

Fields like law, finance and accounting are all private, I have a choice not to go there. Council rates are mandatory. I do not think it is appropriate to use our money to train unskilled workers. The question pops up how were they chosen to be employed in the first place?

- 17) If councils are required to pay for training, should a training fund be established to reduce the financial impact for small and regional local governments?
